

HOW TO KILL DANDELIONS

Forget frustrating and backbreaking hours of digging up dandelion roots that always seem to break off and regrow when you're not looking! Refuse to pollute the planet with costly antisocial herbicides! Here is the answer you never believed possible, as I learned it from an experienced gardener:

Simply pour over them cheap ordinary kitchen salt. They begin to wither within 24 hours, and continue to die a horrible death that penetrates right down to their deepest roots.

Martin Mosse,
November 2016.